

This image 'Lowry' oak sideboard, £4,375, Pinch (pinchdesign.com) Right 'Parrot Team' candelabra by Jaime Hayón, £765, Lladro (lladro.com). 'Kokeshi' china plates, from £32.95 each, Spina (spinadesign.co.uk). 'Uzbek'

cotton cushion, £60, Niki Jones (niki-jones.co.uk) Below Vintage chairs upholstered in 'Burnet Ombre' cotton-mix fabric, £99 per m, Clarissa Hulse (clarissahulse.com). 'Butterfly Ball' porcelain chandelier, £3,898, Diffuse (diffuse.co.uk)

Fun of the fair

Feast your eyes on the latest interior design at the Decorex International exhibition

What is it? This high-end trade fair showcases 260 of the best, established and emerging talents in furniture, lighting, fabrics and flooring design, and has been a diary 'must' for retailers, interior designers and architects for the past three decades.

Why go? Besides being able to source a vast array of new products under one roof, you can get exclusive insights from leading designers thanks to the seminar programme. Plus, the Lewis Carroll theme of the Nina Campbell-designed entrance and the set by Spanish duo Herme y Monica is bound to fill you with as much wonder as Alice.

What to look out for? Home-grown talent: over a quarter of the exhibitors (think Barneby Gates wallpaper and furniture by Nuttall Home) make their products in the UK. The bespoke services offered by Ben Whistler furniture, Luke Irwin rugs and Diffuse lighting mean there's plenty of opportunity to make your own mark, too.

The details Decorex International 2010 takes place at The Royal Hospital Chelsea, London, from 26-29 Sept, 2010. Trade tickets cost £10 in advance; £15 on the door. Tickets for the general public cost £20 and are valid from 1-7pm on 28 Sept. Call 0844 557 2306 or visit decorex.com to pre-book.

DECOREX 26th - 29th September 2010
INTERNATIONAL Royal Hospital Chelsea,
London, UK

THE INTERIOR DESIGN SHOW FOR PROFESSIONALS